

Reporting channels

Anyone (including employees, business partner or external persons and organizations) can report suspected or actual violations of laws or internal regulations.

As a Pfeiffer employee, you can report concerns through the following channels:

Preferred: Contact your supervisor or the Human Resources department. Open and transparent communication is essential for effective compliance.

Alternatively: Reach out to the local or global Compliance Officer.

Fully anonymous: Use our web-based whistleblowing system, certified for data protection. You may set up a secure mailbox to receive updates while keeping your identity protected.

Important:

All reports are treated confidentially. Informants acting in good faith are protected from retaliation. However, intentionally false reports may result in consequences. Please use the system responsibly.
